

Product Management Working Student/Intern (m/f/d)

Internship, Working Student · Munich Office

---

THE ROLE

Join remberg as a Product Manager and digitize the industrial world with us! As a product management working student/intern you conceptualise, design and manage features of our product to translate our product vision into tangible results. You will work cross-functionally with our customers, users and engineers to improve the user experience.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES

As a product management working student/intern you conceptualise, design and manage features of our product to translate our product vision into tangible results. You will work cross-functionally with our customers, users and engineers to improve the user experience.

- You take on responsibility for new and existing features of our product
- You analyze our user's current behavior and, based on their needs and feedback, improve product workflows and user experience
- You design user stories and mockups and test them together with our customer base
- Together with our product & engineering team you release new features that immediately bring real value to our customers

YOUR PROFILE

- You are studying computer science, human-machine interaction, interaction design, a visual arts subject or similar
- You have strong visual design and excellent problem-solving skills combined with a creative approach
- You have first experience in conducting user research
- You are able to work collaboratively with code reviews and using agile methodologies like Scrum

- You have excellent verbal and written communication skills in German and English.
- You know how to apply product design tools such as Adobe XD, Figma, Sketch, or similar

WHY REMBERG

- Take the opportunity to help shape a VC-backed start-up from the ground up and have a measurable impact on the early development of our product
- Become part of the team to bring a conservative industry, such as the German machine manufacturing industry, into the digital age
- Get all the benefits of a start-up (flat hierarchies, flexible working hours, responsibility, central office in the heart of Munich, cool team events etc.)

ABOUT US

remberg is a Munich-based high-tech company that helps medium-sized industrial companies to become digital champions in service for their machines, equipment and customers.

Interested? Apply here:

<https://remberg.jobs.personio.de/job/139803#apply>

CONTACT

info@remberg.de